

JOHN YOUNG BARN

You'll find this handsome barn at 2365 East Main Canyon in Wallsburg. It was built by Mr. John Young in Wallsburg the 1970's with the help of Rolo Hendrickson. Mr. Young was born in Wallsburg, and is no longer alive. His wife Florence is the owner of the barn.

The barn is built of red pine with redwood siding, which was very unusual. The main purposes of the barn was for hay storage, and for a place to milk cows, which was done in the shed part of the barn. The surroundings of this structure, as you can see in the picture are beautiful.

Information for this article came from Ben Young and his mother, Florence.

JOHN YOUNG BARN

You'll find this handsome barn in 3365 East Alvin Canyon in Wallburg. It was built by Mr. John Young in Wallburg the 1870's with the help of Rolo Hendrickson. Mr. Young was born in Wallburg and is no longer alive. His wife Florence is the owner of the barn. The barn is built of red pine with redwood siding, which was very unusual. The main purpose of the barn was for hay storage and for a place to milk cows which was done in the shed part of the barn. The surroundings of this structure as you can see in the picture are beautiful.

Information for this article came from Ben Young and his mother, Florence.